

Posting Peg Bitten by Dangerous Dog Highlights Dangers to Postal Delivery Workers So Don't Put Your Fingers Through the Letterbox!

The true nature of the risks being taken by delivery postmen and women daily whilst delivering the mail can be seen by the fact that a posting peg has saved the hand and fingers of a Postman when a dangerous dog attacked the mail as it was being put through a front door and the Posting Peg had a large piece bitten off, through and unguarded letter box. But the Postman's fingers were safe!

Take No Risks! Don't Put Your Fingers Through the Letterbox – Use a Posting Peg whenever you can, where appropriate. And always remember, there are 13 Million Dogs out there across the UK living in the homes you deliver to daily.
