Corporate Accountability
promoting worker and public safety

'The CCA's help was immeasurable. They were empathetic, extremely relevant and at the time a life line'.

CWU branch 'Affiliation' form

The CCA is seeking the support and affiliation of CWU trade union branches

The Centre for Corporate Accountability is a small independent charity providing advice and undertaking research on issues of safety, law enforcement and corporate accountability.

- we provide free and independent support, information and advice to bereaved families and injured workers on criminal justice issues arising out of the death or injury. We work closely with all relevant trade unions and their legal representatives.
- we undertake research into the work of the Health and Safety Executive, Local Authorities, Police and Crown Prosecution Service on the way they carry out their responsibilities in the inspection of workplaces, and in the investigation and prosecution of companies, organisations and individuals.
- we are a source of independent and authoritative information for trade unions, safety bodies and other organisations, on corporate criminal accountability in Britain and internationally through our website.

www.corporateaccountability.org

We need your support to continue our path-breaking work.

By 'affiliating' to the CCA – which only costs £40 – we will provide you with the following:

- each quarter, five copies of our newsletter, 'Corporate Crime Update';
- regular e-mail updates to any member of your Branch on developments in safety and corporate criminal accountability;
- free copies of all CCA publications.

Please fill out the form on the other side of this leaflet
